Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland Cash Services Department is Preparing for the Republican National Convention

To: Depository Institutions Serviced by the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, and Federal Reserve Cash Depots in Buffalo, NY and Pittsburgh, PA

The Republican National Convention will take place in Cleveland from Monday, July 18, 2016 through Thursday, July 21, 2016. The convention has been designated as a “National Special Security Event,” and security zones will be established throughout the city. The main venues for the convention are located within a half mile radius from the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

The Cleveland Bank’s Cash Services Department is working to define the potential impact to our schedule and ability to pay out currency and coin orders to and accept deposits from depository institutions. We are also working to define the potential impact on accessing the Federal Reserve’s dock and transportation routes between the Cleveland Bank and its Cash Depots in Buffalo, NY and Pittsburgh, PA. We are developing a plan to accommodate our customers during the convention and will continue to communicate as information becomes available.

You may find it helpful to review the recent FedFocus article about planning for special events, such as the upcoming convention.

As a reminder, the Federal Reserve communicates FedCash[®] Services status changes on the Service Status page on FRBservices.org. We will also communicate convention-related changes via email and the FedLine Web[®] access solution. To be sure you are on the distribution list for these important communications, please register to receive FedCash Services updates.
