

Same Day ACH New Processing Scenarios and Updated FAQs

March 21, 2016

Federal Reserve Financial Services has posted new content to the Same Day ACH resource center and the Same Day ACH FAQs.

Detailed processing scenario matrices for a non-holiday week and a Monday holiday week have been added to the Same Day ACH resource center.

The Same Day ACH FAQs have been expanded and are available from a link in the Same Day ACH resource center.

The Same Day ACH Resource Center is designed to help ACH network participants prepare for the September 23, 2016 implementation of the ACH Rules change regarding Same Day ACH. The center provides relevant information in one centralized location and is an evolving resource that is updated as new information becomes available.

The center can be reached directly from its URL or by navigating from the Operations Resources and Related Content right-hand menus on the FedACH Services pages and from the Resource Centers and FAQ left-hand dropdown menu on the FRBservices.org home page.

You may want to bookmark the resource center page so you can return often to check for updates.

If you wish to discuss FedACH Services, including information notification and reporting services such as the [FedPayments[®] Reporter Service](#) or the [suite of FedACH Risk[®] Management Services](#), please reach out to your account executive.